

Speech 103 Oral Communication

Oral Communication offers a wide variety of reading, application and speaking assignments designed to expose students to all the major skills of speech making. Students focus on the following basic elements: ethics, analyzing the audience, visual aids, choosing a topic and specific purpose, outlining, listening, organization, delivery, small group communication, autobiographical, informative and persuasive speaking, speaker credibility, effective use of language and library research.

Grand Canyon University Phoenix, AZ
Adjunct Instructor- Department of Communication
Courses Taught:

2003-2004

COM 411 Journalism Internship I

COM 412 Journalism Internship

II COM 413 Photojournalism I

COM 414 Photojournalism II

COM 415 Public Relations Internship I

COM 416 Public Relations Internship

II COM 417 Broadcasting Internship I

COM 418 Broadcasting Internship II

Coordinator and class instructor for students participating in an organized internship program. Helped to place, supervise and counsel students while working within the community in their chosen line of work.

Paradise Valley Community College Phoenix, AZ
Adjunct Instructor - Department of Communication
Courses Taught:

2003-2004

COM 100 Introduction to Communication

This course explores the theory and practice of communication skills used in public, small group, and interpersonal settings. Includes study of the speech communication process.

COM 225 Public Speaking

The class is designed to improve self-confidence and self-concept by improving communication skills used in public speaking, enhancing each student's ability to present his ideas in an organized, time constrained format, improving critical thinking skills, enhancing each student's ability to express himself or herself objectively, subjectively, and creatively.

Scottsdale Community College Scottsdale, AZ
Adjunct Instructor- Department of Communication
Courses Taught:

2003-2004

COM 100 Introduction to Communication

This course explores the theory and practice of communication skills used in public, small group, and interpersonal settings. Includes study of the speech communication process.

COM 225 Public Speaking

The class is designed to improve self-confidence and self-concept by improving communication skills used in public speaking, enhancing each student's ability to present his ideas in an organized, time constrained format, improving critical thinking skills, enhancing each student's ability to express himself or herself objectively, subjectively, and creatively.

Broadcasting Experience

Philadelphia Television News Philadelphia, PA 2000

On-Air News Reporter

Research, write, and edit daily news stories for a 24-hour cable news channel. Deliver stories live and in taped package format. Assisted with training station's Assignment Editors.

KAPP -TV ABC NEWS Yakima, WA 1999-2000

On-Air News Reporter

Anchor for weekly segment "Focus on Women"

Research, write, edit and shoot daily news stories. Anchor for weekly segment called "Focus on Women" featuring women's health and family issues. Assisted with training college interns.

KESQ-TV ABC NEWS Palm Desert, CA 1998

Assignment Editor

Plan and research stories, coordinate photographers, anchors, reporters, and producers. Responsible for all breaking news. Associate producer for weekend newscasts. Assisted with training college interns.

KWIN 97.7 FM Stockton, CA 1997

Weekend DJ

On-Air personality for Top 40/ Dance format radio station.

Education

Master of Arts in Education (MAED) University of Phoenix Phoenix, AZ 2003

Arizona Teaching Credential University of Phoenix Phoenix, AZ 2003

Bachelor of Arts in Communication University of the Pacific Stockton, CA 1998

References Available Upon Request